COURT ORDER SET TO NUDGE LEWIS

Reds Claim Swedes Give U.S. Bases

Paper Says Heavy Air Units Eyed

MOSCOW, March 29—The Soviet press extended its "war of words" to Sweden today, charging the Scandinavian nation with offering air bases to the United States.

The newest Russian attack came in the wake of an Izvestia charge two days ago that Norway was planning to lease military bases to the U. S. and Britain.

The stepped-up pressure on Scandinavia was further evident in Russo-Finnish talks in Moscow concerning Premier Stalin's proposed mutual aid pact.

Red Star, the newspaper of the Soviet army, accused Sweden's military leaders—and those of other Scandinavian countries—of promising air bases to the U. S.

THE ARTICLE commented on recent demands in Swedish newspapers that the country's armed forces be increased.

The Russian paper charged that a "secret agreement" between Sweden and "other Scandinavian nations" provides air bases for the U. S. for American heavy bombers. The northern states took this course rather than acquire expensive aircraft of their own.

The newspaper singled out for criticism Swedish Colonel Karl Bratt, who, according to the Russians, had spoken of "a possible threat from certain dangerous action in the East."

Red Star said: "Bratt has joined the general chorus of propagandists in the arms race. These militarist statements are aimed at forming a military alliance of Western European states jointly with the United States."

THE EXTENSIVE propaganda testifies to the subordination of the structure of all Sweden's armed forces to the aims of Anglo-American imperialism."

In London, The Daily Herald said that the Red Star article included Britain in its charges. The Herald quoted the Russian newspaper as saying that Swedish aviation was being bolstered with planes from the U. S. and Britain.

Commies Win

BUCHAREST, March 29—Romania's Communist-dominated government announced today that it had received the endorsement of 78 percent of the voters in yesterday's national assembly elections. Twenty percent of the eligible eight million voters failed to go to the polls.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Mike Jacobs is much better since he heard Joe Louis now is willing to fight for a purse of ice skates. For years Joe wouldn't take anything but money.

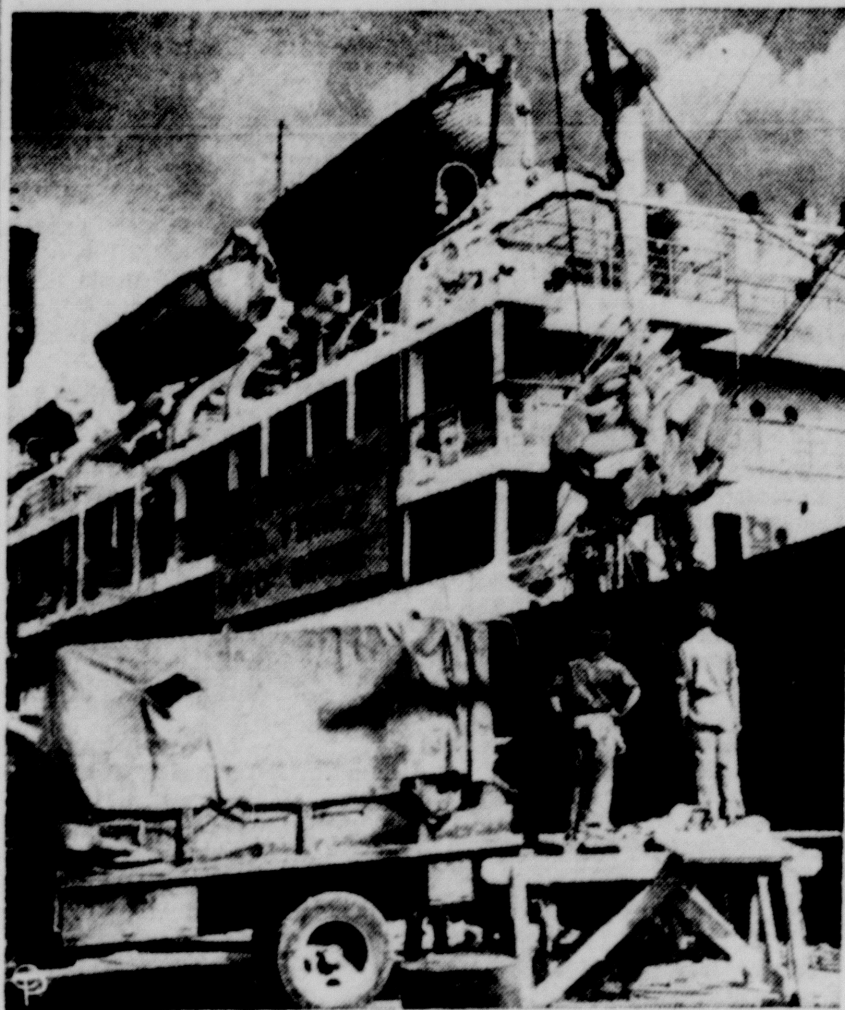

The champ will box two exhibitions in Sweden for 2,600 pair of ice skates and I hear Joe Walcott says Louis also better win a bicycle.

But the Swedish precedent established, the next title bout may be refereed by Ralph Edwards—if they can get a third man in a ring cluttered up with fireless cookers, toasters and refrigerators.

The jackpot prize will be the awarding of Jacobs to whichever fighter rumbas the best to Mike's china castanets.

Edwards is the boy to handle the deal. He is personally responsible for 75 percent of today's refrigerator production.

I know some people who aren't quite bright; they bought a refrigerator when they could have had tickets to a broadcast.

Chill Nips Easter Strolls But Puts Brake On Scioto

The Ohio weather was warming a little Monday, a day too late for Easter promenaders.

Light rain was forecast by the weather bureau for early Tuesday, with conditions turning somewhat chilly again.

Sunday saw Ohioans turned out in great numbers for Easter sunrise and church services despite below-freezing temperatures in most places. Light snow

Eliot Henry, 71, Dies Saturday In Columbus

Eliot Henry, colorful and well-known resident of Circleville, died at 11:30 p. m. Saturday in the home of a niece, Mrs. Horton Reid of Columbus following an extended illness. He was 71 years old.

He was a former undertaker, salesman and past exalted ruler of Circleville Elks lodge.

A life long resident of Circleville, he was born here May 26, 1876, the son of John and Margaret Henry.

Beside his lodge affiliation, Mr. Henry was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic church. In addition to his niece, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Marie Abernathy of Columbus, and Mrs. Frank Adams of Baltimore, Md.; one brother, Donald J. Henry of St. Louis, Mo.; and two nephews.

Red Plot Seen

RANGOON, March 29—Burmese Premier Thakin Nu declared today that his government has proof that the Communist party of Burma is plotting to seize power by force.

They are President Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

The President had clear sailing for the Democratic nomination until a boom was launched to replace him with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The "Draft Eisenhower" boom became serious when Jacob M. Arvey, head of Chicago's Cook County organization, expressed hope that Eisenhower would be "available" to the Democrats.

Gov. Dewey is in a worse spot. He has been conducting an uphill campaign for the nomination, which was handed him in 1944 on a platter at Chicago. His 1948 ambitions may be wrecked in the Wisconsin primary April 6.

much in evidence along Lake Erie. Fur coats and other winter clothing were the practical mode of dress, although new spring bonnets got their initial workout.

ALTHOUGH the chilly weather may have placed a frosty touch on midday's dress parade, it is credited with putting a brake on rising waters of the Scioto river.

The stream crested a 17.4 feet Sunday morning, was 15.5 falling at mid-morning Monday.

Charles Carter, local weather and river observer, said that all county roads were open Monday morning and that inundated river bottom lands were rapidly clearing of backup water.

Robert Swift, manager of Circleville's Thomas Airport, took a Circleville Herald representative on an aerial tour of the Scioto valley shortly after noon Sunday, pointing out the vast areas of rich farm land covered by the flood.

Swift said it appeared that Sunday's high water had not reached previous peaks. Still, they were high enough to back up state conservation department reports that more land area in the Circleville area is lost to floods than any other region in the entire Scioto Valley.

The aerial survey showed that not only were seldom-used bottom lands covered by the swirling waters but that numerous lush green winter wheat fields were streaked by the muddy, brown Scioto backwaters.

Personal Tax Warning Seen

Warning that a 10 percent penalty would be placed on all personal property taxes filed later than Wednesday was voiced Monday by County Auditor Fred L. Tipton.

To date, Tipton said, approximately 2,100 already have signed leaving another 700 to be received before deadline Thursday.

Baruch Asks Ready-To-Go Arms Plan

'No Peace' Now, Expert Claims

WASHINGTON, March 29—Bernard Baruch called upon Congress today to approve the draft and Universal Military Training now and to supplement it with a standby "ready-to-go" blueprint for total mobilization of the nation's resources.

The elder statesman, testifying before the Senate armed forces committee, said he hasn't lost hope of reaching an understanding with Russia but emphasized in his opening remarks "there is no peace" in the world at the present.

Noting that the "time for decision has come," Baruch urged Congress to prepare the country for any eventuality by:

Immediate re-enactment of selective service;

Prompt enactment of Universal Military Training;

Compulsory rehabilitation of youths with physical or mental defects;

Immediate adoption of an all-embracing plan for industrial and economic mobilization so that universal training rests upon a solidly-grounded pyramid of total preparedness;

SETTING UP of a "watchdog" committee to "watch the impact upon our economy and to maintain a constant inventory, balancing our growing commitments against our resources."

Baruch said the nation's obligations "require the mobilization of sufficient military power so that the economic aid sent overseas is not hijacked and so that the Voice of America will speak of courage and hope, not of fear and disaster."

He said the need for Universal Military Training as a method of preparedness is even more urgent than before World War II. He described the need for the total mobilization as "pressing."

Baruch recommended that Congress enact the mobilization plan now, and place it on the statute books so that the President (Continued on Page Two)

Death Comes To Frank Marion Late Sunday

Frank Acton Marion, 74, of North Scioto street, died at mid-night Sunday in a Columbus hospital.

He was a plumbing contractor by trade, member of BPO Elks lodge and Blue Lodge of the Masons and the Presbyterian church. He was a former member of Circleville city council and one of the founders of the old Circleville Athletic Club.

Born in Amanda Township in Fairfield county on Oct. 31, 1873, he was a son of Nicholas C. and Harriet Hammel Marion. He married Elizabeth Hoffman in April 1904 who preceded him in death.

A combination of these four big states—New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois—with the South, would defeat Mr. Truman. They would control 580 delegates, with only 618 needed to control the convention. Kentucky and West Virginia could furnish the rest.

4 UN Nations Label Soviet Atom Plan As Unrealistic

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 29—Four powers in the United Nations charged today that Russia's plan for atomic control offers an aggressor overwhelming military supremacy and a springboard to a secretly prepared atom war against the world.

The outspoken condemnation and rejection of the Soviet proposals for atomic control offered by Russia as a substitute for the vetoless Baruch plan came in a joint declaration at Lake Success from Britain, France, China and Canada.

The startling conclusions of four of the 11 members of the UN Atomic Energy Commission were read to this group by Richard Miles, British representative. The report of the four stressed that "no useful purpose can be served" by further discussion of the Soviet proposals.

U. S. Representative Frederick Osborn is known to be heartily in agreement with the tone of the conclusions.

SINCE THE beginning of discussions on the Russian scheme, submitted in June of 1947, Osborn has repeatedly branded them as "fraudulent."

The four-nation report turned down as "completely unrealistic" the Russian demand that atomic weapons be destroyed and outlawed before a control agreement has been achieved.

A summary says that the Russian proposals "ignore the existing technical knowledge of the problem of atomic energy control, do not provide an effective international control

Sleepy Driver Fined $25

Earl L. Dabney, of Columbus, a sleepy motorist who was spared a hearing Saturday because officers could not awaken him, was fined $25 and costs when haled before Magistrate H. O. Eveland Monday accused of reckless driving. Dabney was committed to Pickaway County jail in default of payment.

In a second weekend case to come before Eveland, Hollis Jacobs was fined $10 and costs for failing to stop at a traffic signal.

The warning was issued as all women, children and old men were evacuated from the Montefiore district, one of Jerusalem's principal Jewish areas, in anticipation of an Arab attack.

of atomic energy and the elimination from national armaments of atomic weapons and therefore do not conform to the reference terms of the Atomic Energy Commission."

In a scorching opinion that under the Soviet control scheme there could easily be evasion of controls and extensive clandestine production of atom weapons by one nation bent on aggression against the others, Miles pointed out that lack of enforcement of such a control treaty would result in "false security."

THE FOUR representatives exhaustively analyzed the Russian plan and point by point disclosed its defects.

The report goes on to note with some surprise that the Soviet Union avoids commitment to an atomic control treaty even if all nations should agree to destroy and outlaw atom weapons beforehand.

House Panel Would Give ERP Chief Veto Powers

WASHINGTON, March 29—The House foreign affairs committee voted today to revise the European Recovery Program by restricting American trade with the Soviet Union and its satellite nations.

The committee adopted an amendment by Rep. Mundt (R-S.D.), directing the ERP administrator to "veto" the export of any American product to a "non-participating" European nation whenever he feels it is "not in the national interest."

The amendment was adopted just before the House began voting on the $6.25 billion foreign recovery program and was subject to house approval.

The committee adopted the amendment at a closed session despite the warning by Former President Herbert Hoover that trade with the Soviet Union should not be restricted, except for "munitions," if the world is to recover economically.

The new amendment supplements a provision adopted earlier by the committee. The earlier Mundt amendment would bar recipient nations from shipping to Soviet countries any articles whose export was banned by the United States.

Two other major proposals affecting United States relations with the Soviet were pending as the Republican leadership pressed for a final vote on the Europe and China aid program by nightfall tomorrow.

They are: A proposed amendment by Rep. Colmer, (D-Miss.), to terminate all trade relations with the Soviet Union and other nations behind the "iron curtain."

UMW Chief Ignoring Coal Parley

Court Has Trouble Serving Subpoena

WASHINGTON, March 29—John L. Lewis was subpoenaed today to appear before a presidential fact-finding board investigating the coal mine strike, after he angrily persisted in his boycott of the inquiry.

The board prepared to back the subpoena with a court order should Lewis choose to ignore it. Lewis was directed to appear this afternoon.

Members of the three-man panel headed by Federal Judge Sherman Minton conferred with Joseph Friedman, Justice department attorney, on the procedure to be followed in forcing a new showdown with the truculent leader of 400,000 striking members of the United Mine Workers.

It was pointed out that if Lewis remains adamant, contempt proceedings again may result. Lewis and the UMW were assessed huge fines in 1946 for contempt in ignoring a federal court order.

Government officers experienced considerable difficulty in their attempts to serve Lewis with the subpoena. For a time, they were barred from use of the elevator which affords the only access to Lewis' sixth-floor office in the United Mine Workers Building.

The elevator operator explained that "a meeting's going on upstairs" and that he had orders to deny use of the lift to "everybody."

Later, the deputy marshals succeeded in reaching the sixth floor, but on their return to the lower level they refused to say whether the subpoena had been served.

K. C. Adams, editor of The UMW Journal, who ordinarily functions as Lewis' spokesman, told reporters "it's obvious what happened," and refused to say more.

LATER, LEWIS left the UMW building alone and was surrounded by a throng of reporters and cameramen.

He was asked if the subpoena had been served, and whether he would heed the board's order to (Continued on Page Two)

Soviets Building Trenches Near Korean Divider

38TH PARALLEL, Korea, March 29—The Russians are building entrenchments along the 38th parallel, the line of demarcation between Soviet-held North and American-occupied South Korea.

From American Outpost No. 18 near the village of Yangmuni, about 40 miles north of Seoul, American correspondents today saw North Koreans, under Russian supervision, digging in.

What they saw was one of 25 similar operations which United States patrols and confirmed Korean reports indicate are taking place along the parallel.

These operations include the digging of holes, which could be machinegun or mortar emplacements, connected by zig-zag trenches, with camouflaged foxholes on either side.

NEW LEXINGTON, March 29—A P-47 fighter plane from the Army Air Force Lockbourne air base near Columbus crashed in flames this afternoon, killing the pilot.

Truman, Dewey Both Losing Prestige

WASHINGTON, March 29—The two men whom most Americans believed a month ago would run against each other for the presidency this Fall, today face the prospect of losing their party nominations.

They are President Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

The President had clear sailing for the Democratic nomination until a boom was launched to replace him with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The "Draft Eisenhower" boom became serious when Jacob M. Arvey, head of Chicago's Cook County organization, expressed hope that Eisenhower would be "available" to the Democrats.

Gov. Dewey is in a worse spot. He has been conducting an uphill campaign for the nomination, which was handed him in 1944 on a platter at Chicago.

His 1948 ambitions may be wrecked in the Wisconsin primary April 6.

If so, history will repeat itself. Four years ago, Wendell Willkie was shutout in the Wisconsin primary and retired from the 1944 race, although he had been the Republican nominee in 1940.

Mr. Truman's plight is not so desperate. He can ignore the Southern revolt and win the nomination easily. But he cannot survive a "big city" revolt, coupled with the Southern rebellion.

The President already faces opposition from Chicago's Arvey, a powerful leader who took over the political kingdom of Former Mayor Edward J. Kelly.

If the Arvey walkout should spread to New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, Mr. Truman's chances of winning the nomination would be doomed.

or domestic situation especially qualifies for the most important office in the world a man whose adult years have been spent in the country's military forces. At least this is true in my case."

The pro-Eisenhowerers say that a world crisis has developed with Russia since Eisenhower repudiated the presidential race.

They insist that the Russian question will remain tense when the Democratic convention meets and that Eisenhower could well accept the nomination under such circumstances in keeping with his statement.

appear. To both questions he replied:

"No comment."

Lewis said he would tell the reporters where he was going if they promised to "let me alone." The promise given, he barked:

"To the barber shop." And majestically, he strode away.

Thus the stage is set for a bitter legal battle.

Lewis asserted that neither he nor the UMW had violated what he called the "infamous" Taft-Hartley law and accused two members of the fact-finding board of "bias and prejudice."

THE UMW president declared that Mark Ethridge and George W. Taylor, the board members he charged with bias, "in honor should not serve."

Lewis took cognizance of the court battle certain to result from his boycott of the board. He said:

"It is a logical assumption that the cavilings of the bar and bench in their attempt to explicate this infamous enactment will consume a tedious time."

In a message to Judge Minton, Lewis said:

"My disinclination to attend falls substantially into two categories:

"1. The law—No action has been taken by this writer or the UMW, as such, which would fall within the purview of the oppressive statute under which you seek to function.

"Without indulging in analysis, it is a logical assumption that the cavilings of the bar and bench in their attempt to explicate this infamous enactment will consume a tedious time.

"2. Prejudice—Two members of your board are prejudiced and prejudiced in honor should not serve. They are Ethridge and Taylor.

"SINCE the inception of this imbroglio, Ethridge has published biased and prejudicial editorials and special articles deleterious to this union and this writer in a newspaper controlled by him.

"Taylor for years has been an administrative hanger-on in Washington, and he has never lost an opportunity to harass and persecute this union and this writer.

"He is inherently incapable of determining the distinction between a fact and a scruple.

"In attendance is Ching (Cyrus Ching, federal conciliation chief), a truly remarkable man, who sees through the eyes of United States Rubber."

Ethridge is publisher of The Louisville Courier-Journal and Taylor is a former chairman of the War Labor Board.

Superhighway Is Proposed

JACKSON, March 29—A new four-lane superhighway to connect industrial Northern Ohio with the scenic, rugged southeastern hill country was proposed today by the Southern Ohio Regional Council.

The council, representing the eight Southeastern Ohio counties whose resources are in an undeveloped stage, is going to place the federal-state-local proposal before the state highway department.

The road would connect with northern routes at Mansfield and join West Virginia routes at Chesapeake, near Huntington. Through the hill country it would connect Logan, McArthur, Wellston, Jackson and Oak Hill.

Civilian Defense Revival Urged

WASHINGTON, March 29—Sen. Johnson, (D) Colo., today urged immediate formation of a permanent civilian defense organization throughout the nation to combat germ warfare in World War III.

Johnson, member of the congressional atomic committee, termed danger of atomic attacks "very remote" but bacteriological war "very possible."

He declared that the only "defense" is to have a well-organized civilian defense body, including doctors and nurses, ready to swing into pre-planned action the moment a "plague" develops anywhere.

Colmer appeared determined to offer his amendment despite a warning from Secretary of Commerce Harriman that breaking off economic relations with a nation is usually the prelude to war. Rep. Eaton, (R) N. J., foreign affairs committee chairman, expressed confidence the amendment would be defeated.

Mundt expressed the view that "economic sanctions" is going too far. The South Dakotan said he would like to see such articles as radios, rugs, furniture, pictures, etc., sent to Russia.

Mundt's new amendment would supplement the East-West trade restriction he earlier successfully sponsored. The provision now in the bill, to which Hoover expressed opposition, would bar recipient countries from shipping to Soviet nations any articles whose export was banned by the United States.

Local Firemen Make 2 Runs

Circleville firemen made two runs over the weekend, the first at 9 p. m. Saturday and the second at the same hour Sunday night.

The first run was to the home of Nelson Walters, 132 East Franklin street, whose chimney was afire. Firemen said damage was negligible.

Sunday night the men were called to the home of Meldrum Gray, 611 Guilford road, where the garage was blazing. Firemen were mystified as to the cause of the blaze, which they estimated caused nearly $250 worth of damage.

The spokesman made it clear that Jews would not deliberately violate the sanctity of Christian shrines, but explained that it is inevitable that they will be damaged if violence continues.

His warning came after a bloody Easter Sunday which left Palestine a shambles, with at least 65 dead and 80 wounded.

Jews have previously appealed for an international force—preferably made up of Scandinavian troops—to preserve the truce in Jerusalem.

Egg Shortage In Fall Feared

COLUMBUS, March 29—Eggs may be less plentiful and more costly next fall.

Poultry Specialist C. M. Ferguson of Ohio State university reported today that there has been a "considerable reduction" in the sale of chicks so far this year. He pointed out that, even if farmers do buy more late-hatched chicks to make up the deficiency, the number of pullets ready for early fall egg production will be below 1947.

Pointing out that feed prices have again reached the high levels prevailing before the February drop, Ferguson also urged that poultry be put out to pasture to lower the cost of raising them.

dent, in concurrence with Congress, could invoke it in any emergency.

The presidential adviser said any military training program adopted by Congress must be adequate, so that it is not a waste of time. He expressed "grave doubts" whether the six-month proposal now under consideration was long enough. He advocated at least a year.

BARUCH SAID the United States must abandon its traditional "wait and see" policy if "we are to use America's power effectively to prevent war." He declared:

"The greatest single necessity in the world today is for America to make up its mind where it stands, so that the other free peoples on earth know where to rally."

He said any mobilization plan should cover such things as priorities, allocations and rationing powers; wage, rent and price ceilings; taxation to take the profit out of war; the accumulation of strategic materials; a work-or-fight wartime draft; the organization of labor pools in all professions and sciences; intensified scientific research; expanded intelligence and information service;

Retention of war plants in stand-by readiness; decentralization of industry to guard against over-concentration which would be a strategic liability; up-to-date surveys of underground industrial facilities, and uniform war contracts.

Helen Riley, executor for the Frank L. Howard estate has been authorized by Judge Sterling M. Lamb in Pickaway County probate court to continue business for one month at Mr. Howard's barber shop on South Court street.

Reason for the motion is to promote the business into a going concern prior to its sale.

Patrolman Dies

COLUMBUS, March 29—Patrolman Norman R. McIntire, 47, suddenly collapsed and died last night at Columbus police headquarters. Dr. Ralph A. Laughlin, police surgeon who pronounced McIntire dead, said he apparently died of a heart attack. McIntire would have been a member of the police department for 20 years on May 23.

posts No. 17 and 18, there is an S-shaped trench 800 yards long with a 200-yard trench extending across its middle in a north-south direction. This is one of three trenches in the same vicinity.

The Soviet emplacements would have value only in defensive action. At several places they command north-south roads, of which there are five without lateral connections with each other.

Some observers think this is a move to alarm the North Koreans into fearing an attack will come from the south and thus getting them to back up the Russian plan to establish a "Korean People's Republic" in the north.

It is generally acknowledged that the building of entrenchments along the Soviet side of the occupation boundary will further upset the South Koreans.

The latter already are disturbed also by a widespread report that the Korean election committee will ask for a postponement of the South Korean election, scheduled to be held under United Nations auspices.

Youth Suffered Cracked Bone

The driver, Robert Huffer, 10 426 North Court street, and two other Circleville youths, Dean Smallwood and Ralph Starkey, escaped injury in the crash, authorities reported.

TEST OF INTENT

A NEW foreign policy may even now be in the process of formation in Berlin, where the three western powers, Great Britain, France and the United States, are testing the willingness of Russia to continue an effort to work together in Germany.

In walking out of a meeting of the Allied Control Council the Russians reverted to a weapon of negotiation familiar to them. A new kind of defense against it was introduced, however, when the other powers announced they would not meet with Russian representatives on any subordinate level of German administration until Russia returns to the control council.

In all the complicated negotiations following the end of the war the Russians have used this technique, in one form or another, time and time again, to gain a desired point or to avoid discussing a point the Kremlin did not wish to yield. Repeatedly the western powers have yielded to the technique in order to keep negotiations going.

There is implication now that the western governments have decided there is no sense in negotiating with Russia unless the Russians, too, negotiate. If this inference is correct then a new foreign policy is being drawn.

THE LONG SPOON

"HE WHO sups with the devil should have a long spoon." This old proverb should have been remembered by the Europeans who collaborated with the Nazis, as Dr. Goebbels' newly published diaries show. Marshal Petain and his Vichy supporters justified themselves by the argument that, by co-operating with Hitler, they were protecting France. But in a diary entry dated April 30, 1942, Goebbels says, "If the French knew what the Fuehrer is one day going to demand of them, their eyes would in all likelihood brim over. It is good for the present not to say anything about this and to try to get out of French expectations as much as we can."

The French collaborators with the Nazis would ultimately have experienced the same reward that came to Czechoslovakia when she tried to be friends with the Communists. The advocates of appeasing Stalin should remember that he does not necessarily show all his cards at once.

GEN. DOUGLAS MacArthur seems to be a good and useful man who is sometimes misunderstood even by himself.

Most names in the news seem rather dumb, but James Caesar Petrillo somehow seems to sound like himself.

It may be an open question whether our relations with Russia involve a compact or an impact.

Inside WASHINGTON

Anderson's Senate Candidacy | Agriculture Secretary Faces Spurred on by Demo Chiefs | Two Tough Hurdles in Race

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The surprising decision of Agriculture Secretary Clinton P. Anderson to run for the Senate was spurred by Democrat chiefs who know they need the seat if they hope to regain Senate control.

Anderson, seeking the seat of retiring Democrat Carl Hatch, will face a grim fight in the primary as well as the election. John J. Dempsey, former New Mexican governor, will oppose Anderson in the primary. Dempsey confounded Democrat strategists who assumed he would stand aside in the agriculture secretary's favor.

Anderson, prominently mentioned as President Truman's vice presidential running mate, will still face tough opposition if he beats Dempsey. His GOP opponent, Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, former secretary of war, ran a close second in the 1946 election for New Mexico's other senatorial seat, and reports are that his strength is increasing.

● RUSSIA AND THE THIRD PARTY—The Soviet Information Bureau at Moscow recently commented: "One should not lose sight of the efforts being made by the ruling circles of the United States against the USSR, the influence of progressive elements in their own country, who advocate better relations with the USSR."

"The attack on progressive elements in the United States is undoubtedly aimed at undermining their influence in view of the presidential elections to be held in the autumn of 1948."

Could they have been referring to Henry Wallace and the third party?

● SCHOOLS PASS THE HAT—The dwindling value of the dollar

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

No President, since Andrew Johnson, faced the personal misfortunes that bring to an end Harry Truman's career as President. He has lost the confidence of the people; he has lost the support of his party. The last two years of Herbert Hoover's Presidency were very hard, indeed, but his party stood by him until he was actually defeated.

Harry Truman is being deserted on all sides. In the South, his party's stronghold, a revolt of a most serious nature is in actual being. In the big cities of the North, the representatives of his party are declaring that they cannot support him, although the Convention is four months away. Men who had planned to run for office on the Democratic ticket are backing away from it, because they have assured themselves that defeat is inevitable, not only for him but for anyone that runs with him.

The possibility is that President Truman puts all this opposition down to self-interest on the part of others. The Southerners are annoyed with him for sponsoring a Federal Fair Employment Practices Act; the Northern Big City Democrats are angry over the Palestine fiasco; some Western "isolationists" object to ERP; and so on over a dozen issues. He undoubtedly believes that he has given the country a competent administration in the face of the most complex difficulties which he inherited from President Roosevelt and none of which were of his making.

No one tells him that his backing away from a fight with Henry Wallace over basic issues reduced him to a ridiculous position. For weeks after Henry Wallace projected himself as a national savior, all the tipsters were reporting an internal quarrel in the White House between the conservatives represented by Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder and Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson on one side, and the radicals represented by Senator J. Howard McGrath and the employee of the Democratic National Committee, Gael Sullivan, on the other side.

The Conservative Democrats apparently advocated a firm policy of national reconstruction; the radicals proposed that the President do anything that came to mind, to win the 1948 Election. The mathematical calculation was based on the assumption that the South stays put, blindly voting for any Democrat, no matter what he does. With that as a base, it was still possible to win if only he squeezed through in the Northern Big Cities.

That was the argument that won the day. So Mr. Truman came through with his Federal Fair Employment Practices program which was designed to please the Northern Negroes; he supported the Palestine Partition scheme; he pulled the CIO and the AFL out of the Wallace ranks. He even went easy on the Communists, avoiding great pressures with regard to loyalty, failing to stop the shipment of war supplies to Soviet Russia, preventing the Federal Grand Jury in New York from handing down a presentment on Jan. 20, as planned.

And so it is all over. He might just as well not run. And while the Republicans may rejoice at his discomfiture, for the country, it is not too good, as Henry Wallace is liable to garner a huge protest vote which will give us Wallace as a national nuisance. Too much Wallace may be too much for the United States.

has sent university and college presidents into the street looking for some pocket-bulging millionaires.

Education officials report that GI students will be as plentiful next year as ever, but rising costs and higher taxes are cutting revenues.

Some leaders are worried about shrinking endowments and the prospect that some activities will have to be curtailed unless more money is forthcoming.

Hardest hit are the nation's top private universities—Yale, Columbia, Northwestern and others. Some schools are resorting to high-powered fund raising drives. Others are merely postponing their plans so as not to be caught short with overexpanded plants when values decline.

● EXCISE TAXES—Wartime excise taxes, which are still at the same levels that prevailed during the period of hostility, will not be cut appreciably, if at all, in 1948.

The reason is that the budget and revenue pictures will not permit such a cut, and that Congress will cram into the income tax reduction bill about all the revenue slash that the situation will stand.

The levies on liquor, cosmetics, jewelry, theater tickets, transportation, telephone tolls and more than a dozen other things will stand pretty much where they are.

These taxes are not likely to be reduced, either, as long as foreign aid programs continue to require the expenditure of large sums.

● BILLY MITCHELL'S DREAM—The dream of Billy Mitchell, the Air Force general who foresaw the true power of the airplane as a war—and thereby peace—weapon, is about to come true.

Now, 11 years after Mitchell died, a survey of congressional leaders reveals that not one will oppose President Truman's 1949 fiscal year military budget estimates—$11,420,000,000, of which 41 per cent is for aviation.

What is more, the leaders say that the recent recommendations of the congressional aviation policy board for military aviation expenditures for the next five years will be approved, and probably exceeded.

These recommendations are for 47 per cent of a total 1950 military budget of 14.07 billions; 53 per cent of 16.10 billions in 1951; 53 per cent of 17.72 billions in 1952 and 53 per cent of 18.72 billions in 1953.

Painful Disease of Spine

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ONE ailment which is thought to be largely due to the natural wear and tear of living is the osteoarthritis of the spine which not infrequently develops in middle-aged and elderly people. In this condition, there is inflammation of the joints of the spine and overgrowth of the bony tissues.

Normally, the bones of the spine are separated and cushioned by the little discs of cartilage which lie between them. During the course of a long life, changes in posture and even ordinary movements may result in repeated slight injuries to these tiny cushions so that eventually they become flattened and less elastic.

When this happens, the bones are thrown a bit out of position and inflammation may result. The swelling of the joint tissues, which always accompanies this process, then causes pressure on the nerves which run through the spinal column, thus accounting for the pain which is such a common symptom of this disease.

Pain Around Shoulders
Since osteoarthritis often develops in the upper part of the spine, this pain is most frequently felt around the shoulders. In most cases it begins suddenly. Many times the patient goes to bed feeling all right and awakens in the morning with pain in the shoulder. The pain may pass down into the arm. Coughing, sneezing, or certain movements of the head tend to make it worse.

In other patients, the chief symptoms are loss of the use of the hand, agonizing pain in the fingers, together with swelling and stiffness. Tingling, burning, and numbness in the hand and fingers also sometimes occur.

Stiffness in Neck
The patient with this condition may have occasional attacks of stiffness.

ness in the neck, although in most instances he will be unaware that the real trouble lies in the upper part of the spine.

If a patient has symptoms typical of osteoarthritis, he should, of course, have an examination made of the spine and the shoulders. The doctors will see that X-ray pictures are taken from the side as well as from the front. The plates will often show that there has been an overgrowth of the bony tissues around the openings in the spine from which come the nerves leading to the shoulders and other parts of the body.

Other Conditions

There are other conditions which may produce similar symptoms. For example, there may be inflammation of a bursa, a sac containing fluid, in the shoulder. However, the pain in such cases is much more severe, and there is also tenderness of the shoulder.

Proper treatment of osteoarthritis of the spine often brings relief from the pain. In mild cases, the patient may be up and about but must wear some type of support or device to give the neck a rest. Hot, wet packs, followed by massage and gentle stretching may be given daily. Heat lamps are also useful. As soon as the acute symptoms subside, active exercise of the neck may be started.

Of course, there are also drugs which may be used to relieve the pain and produce muscular relaxation.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
P. K.: Is it true that phobias goes with the menopause?

Answer: Mental disturbances such as phobias or fears may appear during the menopause. In cases of this type, the services of a psychiatrist are required. In most instances, however, change of life does not produce any mental upsets.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

LEANING forward, Mike covered Kit's hand with his. "You were right. We'd make a go of it but all the time we'd know there was something missing. You don't want a friend to live with, Kit. You want a husband who is also your lover. You don't want a writer who works best between midnight and dawn. You're still the girl of the seed advertisements. You want a man to come home at night to you—and the baby and the dog. It was a good idea anyway. I felt so righteous that for a few seconds I thought it would work. But human beings don't add up like numbers, Kit. A marriage isn't like making a cake. You put in all the ingredients the book tells you, stir them up and what have you—a perfect cake. You can't be practical about emotions. They go off on tangents and thumb their noses at you. But without them it would be pretty awful, wouldn't it?"

"But why is it that you're at your worst with the person you love and want?"

He chuckled again. "Emotions, sweet. They knock your poise to pieces. Love doesn't make much sense, Kit, from what I've observed. But most people want it, a lot of people suffer for it and some have been known to die for it. It must be pretty wonderful. Not even the industrial age has altered the mate-hunting instinct. When you see a robin hopping around looking mighty pleased with himself, you know his girl friend is peeping down from the branches. When you aren't in love yourself, it looks stupid and silly. When you are, I suppose you're sorry for the people who aren't. It makes the color in the world brighter. . . . It sets your feet and your heart dancing."

"You don't mind that I . . . ?"

"You were right. You have to have the sparks. But you and Kit—"

"Wrong."

"Why? Is it—Tracy?"

"It's—it's just everything."

"It's love," Mike said. "I told you it didn't make sense. Want me to do something about it? If they have mediators in international messes, why not one in a romance?"

"No, please. Please don't. You've done enough for me. If I can't handle it better in the future than I have in the past, then I belong back in the nursery."

He nodded. "Kirk fits into the picture, Kit. I didn't He'd look just right in that white house. What time is it? We have a long way to go to get you back . . ."

"I'll call Cecil and have him meet my train. It's too far for you to drive tonight."

"Okay. I'll be driving up one of these afternoons soon."

"Tracy likes to see a car coming down the road to the house. She's always looking for one."

"I'll be up soon."

He took her to the station and a few minutes before her train came he drew her gently to him and smiled at her. "Isn't a girl a little older after her first proposal? It's my first, too. Makes me feel like Father Time. Kit, you aren't born walking. You have to crawl and toddle first. And in most of your other experiences it's the same thing . . ."

"Am I toddling, Mike? At least that?"

He patted her shoulder affectionately. "You're beginning to walk. I am walking. I used to reel . . . So long, kid."

The house was quiet and dimly lit when Kit went in later. She felt infinitely better, incredibly older and amazingly clear-headed. It was so simple when you stopped fighting your youth and inexperience, when you stopped reproaching yourself for past mistakes, when you untied the knots in your mind and feelings. But it was so simple when all that stood in your way of making Kirk understand you was Tracy who cared for him, too? Could there be any real understanding as long as the one person who made Tracy look and feel better was Kirk?

She was about to turn off the lamp beside the bed when Tracy rang. Quickly she put on the printed housecoat and soft slippers and went down the hall.

Tracy was in bed. "I heard you come in," she said. "How is Mike?"

Kit smiled. "He was wearing a new suit. He looks fine. He sold a short story."

Tracy looked thoughtful. "So Mike writes a short story and I take up knitting. The day of miracles is not past. I can't sleep. You asked me once if I'd like you to read to me. I would tonight. I went through quite a siege of poetry once. I called it the Poet's Inning. Over there on the bookshelf is a copy of Elizabeth Barrett Browning. Do you mind?"

Kit smiled again. "Not Elizabeth Barrett Browning?"

She fetched the book and came back to the chair beside Tracy's bed and began to read. When she had finished the lines, "Guess now who holds thee? . . . Death, I said. But, there, the silver answer rang . . . Not Death, but Love," Tracy said, "Wait . . ."

Kit looked up.

"That's the answer. That's my answer, too. If only in some way

I could know that this is what I have always wanted and it isn't a passing thing as the others have been." Tracy wasn't looking at Kit. But presently she turned toward her. "I'm talking about Kirk who has never touched me, who disregards my money as if it didn't exist, who has been kind and amusing if a little shy and aloof. No fireworks no words you could ever twist into promises. But domestic fireworks and words that would be lovely because they would be as genuine as he. It makes me think and analyze and compare. I never did before. My other affairs were sudden and violent and, before I knew it, they were exploding in my face. This is what leisure does to you, I suppose. The pause that cleans the mind. It's very diverting to discover that you have a mind when you've been living on your sensations. Your mind becomes a new acquaintance with great potentialities. . . . I seem to want to talk, don't I, rather than think? Because there isn't much time. . . . He's leaving the first of October."

Kit nodded. "I know," she said quietly. "Shall I—shall I go on reading?"

"Yes, do."

Kit read until her voice was hoarse. Tracy listened attentively, her eyes open, expressions of tenderness and bitterness and amusement coming and going in her face.

At last she said, "I'm a beast to keep you up. You must save your energy for knitting. I'll try to sleep now. Thanks and—good night, Kit."

"Good night, Miss Field."

Tracy smiled. "We live so intimately that I think first names should be in order all around."

"Then good night, Tracy."

They exchanged the first smile of friendliness and understanding. Kit went quietly back to her room.

In the morning she was sitting alone beside the pool after a swim when Tony, dressed for town, joined her.

"I wanted to say good-bye, Kit," he stood above her, a handsome young man with a look of pride and determination that made him even handsomer. "Yes, I'm leaving. I have a job. I . . . well, I'd rather not talk about it just yet. But I'll be back in not too long a time. I hope, and tell you about it. My wife doesn't even know what it is. If she did . . ."

"Well, good-bye and keep up the good work with Tracy . . ."

"Good luck . . ."

"Thanks. But it isn't luck I need on this job."

Miss Norma Ruth Moats Becomes Bride Of Paul D. Johnson

Vows Exchanged In Parents' Home

An improvised archway, decorated in pink and white intermingled with ferns and flanked by candelabra and baskets of Easter flowers, provided an artistic setting Sunday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Moats, North Court street, for the wedding of their daughter Miss Norma Ruth Moats to Paul Dwight Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Johnson of Ashville.

The Rev. Harley Bennett, pastor of Church of Christ in Christian Union, performed the wedding rites at 3:30 p. m. in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends.

The bride repeated her nuptial vows in a navy blue crepe frock with accents of pink and grey and black accessories. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. Red rosebuds were used in her bridal bouquet.

Miss Betty Belle Hoover of Ashville was her only attendant. She wore a two-piece pink crepe dress and used black accessories. She pinned a corsage of white carnations at her lapel.

Lloyd Cook from Ashville served as best man. Miss Margaret Cobb of Kingston sang "Because," "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer". She was accompanied by Mrs. Richard Peters of Circleville.

A reception immediately followed in the home of the bride's parents. The buffet meal was served by candlelight from the bride's table centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom.

Mrs. Moats wore a two-piece blue dress with black accessories. Mrs. Johnson selected a light blue dressmaker suit with accents of black. Both mothers had corsages of red carnations.

The bride donned a white flannel coat over her wedding dress and a white hat with a navy veil when they left on a wedding trip to Michigan.

The new Mrs. Johnson attended Circleville high school and now is employed at Berger hospital. The bridegroom attended Walnut Township school. He served two years with the U. S. Armed forces during World War II.

The new couple will make a home near Cedar Hill where the bridegroom is engaged in farming.

Whisler Ladies Aid Society Hostess For Tea

One hundred twelve members and guests attended the silver tea Friday afternoon given by the Whisler Ladies Aid Society in the Presbyterian church of that locality.

A background of jonquils, forsythia and potted ferns provided a Spring-like setting for the affair. Preceding the program, Mrs. Leslie Dearth offered piano selections. The president, Mrs. Clarence Maxson, extended a welcome to the group and presented Mrs. Fred Minshall, program chairman, who in turn introduced Mrs. Bernard W. Young. Mrs. Young read the "Easter Story" and offered a prayer. The group joined to sing a hymn.

Two appropriate poems pertaining to the Easter season were read by Mrs. Leonard W. Mann. Piano selections were played by Mrs. Ronald Montgomery and Mrs. Nelson Jones. Miss Anna L. Pontious gave a religious reading, "The Parable Of The People". Humorous readings were presented by Mrs. Pearl Fetherolf and Mrs. Maude Hedges. The Mizpah benediction followed the closing hymn.

Mrs. William Fox and Mrs. Earl Heffner presided at the silver service when refreshments were served. Six white tapered cast a soft glow over the Quaker lace covered tea table centered with a bouquet of white snapdragons, jonquils and fern.

Thursday To Open Big Race Program In Gotham

NEW YORK, March 29—The best possible line on the financial state of the nation will be offered in New York beginning next Thursday when the horses are scheduled to take off on their Summer-long merry-go-round.

The Jamaica opening is threatened by the hangover of a strike and labor disputes of last Fall, but officials hope to avert difficulties so the betting lines may form without delay.

It will be that betting which will tell the story of how much loose money there still is at ST. LOUIS, March 29—St. Louis Betting Commissioner James Carroll has named the Cardinals in the National League and the Red Sox and Yankees in the American as co-favorites for the forthcoming major league pennant chase.

New York and Boston are co-favored at 5 to 6 each in the American League, while the Cardinals are liked by Carroll at 8 to 5 in the National.

Other National League quotations are: Boston Braves 2 to 1, Brooklyn 3 to 1, New York Giants 5 to 1, Pittsburgh 15 to 1, Cincinnati and Chicago Cubs 20 to 1 each and Philadelphia's Phillies 40 to 1.

In the American league, behind the Yanks and Red Sox, it goes this way: Detroit 8 to 1; Cleveland 20 to 1; Philadelphia Athletics 25 to 1; Washington 40 to 1; and the Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns 100 to 1 each.

Racetrack owners in these immediate parts are not entirely convinced as yet. Just to prove their optimism and lasting faith in the American way they have scheduled 196 days of racing at Jamaica, Belmont, Aqueduct and Saratoga.

THAT'S NEW YORK'S longest season to date and means, of course, that the track owners are not essentially interested in the revenue but are eager to prove that money is so plentiful you simply can't run the customers short.

This idea is based on the conviction that every man has a Fort Knox gold deposit in his back yard. When the facts are finally presented they probably will show that betting and attendance around here are off by a far wider margin than anybody anticipates.

Any man who can't go broke at a race track in 196 days should be stuffed and put under glass as an inspiration to horse-players the world over.

Most horse-players would be overcome with joy to get through a single afternoon of healthful, invigorating one-way walks to the betting booths without losing everything except their transportation home.

Boys' Club '5' Takes 72-49 Loss In Finale

In their last basketball game of the season, the Circleville Boys' club team took a 72-49 trouncing at the hands of the Cleo Pros.

High scorer of the tilt was Bob McAllister, who netted 20 markers for the victors, while Cecil Sowers held high scoring honors for the Boys' club with a total of 11.

Next Saturday morning, members of Boy's club are slated to start training for track, with relay events receiving most attention.

Saturday, two homers by Clyde Vollmer helped the Reds beat the Boston Red Sox, 11 to 3.

WHEN SUIT PREFERENCE

ALL PLAYERS, even the best, have difficulty sometimes in deciding whether a rather high rather low card from their partner is intended as a suit-preference signal. It is not always utterly clear that his high card requests you to switch to the higher-ranking of certain side suits, such as hearts in preference to diamonds, or that his low card indicates a preference for the lower-ranking of the side suits. Especially in the case of the low card, it is up to you to decide the issue on the basis of what you think he is probably trying to tell you.

It required the neatest kind of touch-and-go defense to set that contract three tricks and thereby pile regrets on East and West for not doubling. Three signals from one partner to the other were instrumental in taking that many tricks, seven all told.

West led the best of his partner's suit, the diamond K, then repeated with the 7. When East took that with the J, he could read that West had probably two lower diamonds, so was offering that as a suit-preference signal. That would mean a heart rather than a club. So he sent back the heart 2, on which South tried the Q, the K winning.

Now is West's turn to wonder about his partner's lead. Why the 2 and not some higher card? Probably the lowest-ranking clubs were desired, so West returned the club 2. The Q won the trick. The A was laid down and then East pondered about West's 3 on the trick. That, he could tell, was no suit-preference but the completion of a down-and-out. He therefore returned the club 2. South discarded a diamond and West ruffed with the spade 3, for his side's sixth trick.

South got tricks, after the heart 8 return, with the A, a ruff of the club 10 with the spade 2, the spade K, the spade J and the Q, the spade A and 10, then gave up the last with the heart 9 to the 10. Use of that 9 instead of the Q on the third trick would have saved one.

Linda Darnell stars as a suc-

Successful woman physician who marries a wealthy playboy, portrayed by co-star Robert Young, "You Belong to Me," on the Screen Guild Players broadcast Monday at 10:30 p. m. over station WBNS.

It's the story of how the husband's idleness and jealousy of his wife's male patients almost wreck their marriage, until an altruistic solution occurs to them both.

A musician who blows a hot trumpet—the case for which, incidentally, hides a "hot" pearl necklace—finds that he should have stuck to his music rather than mixing with jewel thieves because "Murder Is The Second Fugitive," Mutual's "Adventures of The Falcon" story for Monday at 9 p. m.

The young horn tooter believes he's doing a woman a favor by returning the pearls. But he doesn't know that she is the one who had arranged to have them stolen.

By popular request, Mutual's "Mysterious Traveler" will once again tell the chilling story "Death Is A Dream" on his weekly radio trip Tuesday at 8 p. m.

The story, aired previously in 1946, reveals how a man's guilt-inspired dreams trapped him with a murder rap.

A private eye who refuses to heed the advice of his good friend, Detective Lieutenant Dan Britt, finds he has embarked on a case that is too hot to handle during Mutual's "Official Detective" dramatization of "Now Lay Me Down To Die" Tuesday at 8:30 p. m.

Lieutenant Britt cautions the Donald S. Walker, president of the U. S. Naval Academy Glee Club, will be the "Who's Here" guest on the Mutual network broadcast by the U. S. Naval Academy Band Tuesday at noon.

Mr. Walker will be interviewed by MBS commentator Helen Hall and, it is anticipated, will outline the schedules of joint Army-Navy unification dinners set throughout the country for Apr. 10.

$1,268 Awarded To Pickaway County In State TB Program

Half-Million Persons Get Ohio Aid

Local Unit Set For Dinner Meet

A state tuberculosis subsidy, approved by the last legislature, made possible the care of almost a half-million TB patients.

And of the total of $1,169,880 in state grants, Pickaway County received $1,268.75.

Such was the report made Monday by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson to the Ohio director of health, Dr. John T. Porterfield.

The report was made as many county tuberculosis chapters were holding annual meetings, laying plans for future activities.

Typical of these meetings is one to be held here Tuesday evening by the Pickaway County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

The local group is to hold a dinner meeting at 6 p. m. Tuesday in Betz's restaurant.

On the program is the annual election of officers and an address by Judge James Bell, probate court judge from Madison County.

The Ferguson report said that all but four counties—Athens, Geauga, Morgan and Vinton—participated in the distribution which covered the last six months of 1947.

FERGUSON'S tabulation stated that of the $1,169,880, $987 of the fund was encumbered, while left only $17,882 remaining at the end of the year of the $1,188,750 subsidy fund set up by the legislature.

Of the total spent, $1,131,017 was expended at the rate of $2.50 per patient-day to care for 452,407 patients, while the remaining $38,862 was spent at the $1.25 rate to care for 31,090 patients.

The subsidy was set up to help counties pay the cost of caring for tubercular patients at the rate of $1.25 a day to the county for improvement of facilities and $1.25 for actual care per patient day.

In cases where the patients were sent to some other institution because the county did not have a tuberculosis hospital of its own, the entire $2.50 grant went to the hospital, with $1.25 of the sum being applied to the charges which the hospital made against the committing county.

The average number of patient-days per month was about 60,000, Ferguson reported.

Man Shoots Wife; Then Kills Self

PORTSMOUTH, March 29 — John P. Francis, 28, Portsmouth auto mechanic, shot and killed himself and critically wounded his divorced wife, Mary Moore Francis, 24, Easter afternoon.

Police said the shooting occurred at the New Boston home of the woman's mother, Mrs. Alice Moore.

Mrs. Moore told New Boston police her daughter was a patient at the Portsmouth general hospital and was visiting her home yesterday afternoon when Francis called.

She said the couple were talking in a second floor room when she heard the shots. Francis and his wife, who he had divorced twice, had sent their only child, Cassandra, three, from the room only a few minutes before the shots were fired.

New Boston police said Francis apparently was jealous when he shot his wife in the stomach with a .38 calibre revolver then put a second shot into his right temple.

Repeal Brings Half-Billion To State Coeffers

COLUMBUS, March 29 — The repeal of prohibition in 1933 has resulted in the collection by the state of Ohio of over a half-billion dollars in revenue from alcoholic beverages.

State Liquor Director Dale Dunifon reported today that net profit on state store sales, taxes of one dollar per gallon, permit fees and other taxes on beer and wines from 1933 through 1947, amount to $547,549,616.

Liquor and alcoholic beverages sold through the state stores since they first were opened in April of 1934 come to $1,045,796,284. Net profit from these sales was $142,217,239 while additional revenue from the gallonage tax came to $100,806,960.

Permit fees collected totaled $77,696,230; total revenue collected by the liquor control department add up to $320,720,429.

Revenues collected by other state agencies on malt beverage, crown, wine and sales taxes added another $226,829,186.

The greatest net profit on state store operation was realized last year in the amount of $16,043,364.

The first full year of World War II, however, resulted in the greatest alcoholic consumption. In 1942, the total number of gallons sold was 10,597,985.

$10,000 Blaze Hits Men's Dorm

XENIA, March 29—Damage was estimated today at $10,000 in an Easter morning blaze that damaged one end of the 30-room men's dormitory on the Cedarville college campus.

Smoke aroused the only two occupants of the building, Don Barger of Hamilton and Don Wheaton of Akron, who turned in the alarm. The rest of the students were home for the Easter vacation.

Members of the Cedarville fire department who fought the flames for two hours, said the blaze apparently started around the heating plant.

College Grads Face Job Cuts

COLUMBUS, March 28—More than half of the students in Ohio colleges are veterans and the number of veteran graduates looking for jobs will double within the next two years.

Bureau of Unemployment Compensation Administrator Frank J. Collopy said a survey revealed that there are 68,404 veterans attending Ohio colleges under the GI Bill of Rights. Total Ohio college enrollment is 133,766.

College officials said an unfavorable change in economic conditions, coupled with a rapidly increasing number of veteran graduates, could cut job opportunities to the bone within a year or two.

Predictions were that jobs would be particularly scarce for graduates in the liberal arts and sciences, law, personnel, business management, medicine and dentistry.

Back To Grind; School's Open

COLUMBUS, March 29 — Spring quarter opened at Ohio State university today with an orientation program for new students.

Classes in both the day and twilight schools start tomorrow. An enrollment of more than 21,000 is expected.

The orientation program to continue through the week includes all sorts of placement and physical tests and registration.

Experts Predict Cut In Steel

CLEVELAND, March 29—Magazine Steel predicted today in Cleveland a possible drop in steelmaking operations to below 60 percent of capacity within two weeks should the coal mine tieup continue.

The national metalworking trade publication said coke and pig iron currently are hardest hit, and that beehive coke output is at a virtual standstill and even coke production has been seriously reduced. Steel added:

Effects of the coal strike on pig iron is reflected in practically all producing centers with furnaces either being banked or blown out, or operated on reduced draft.

Proposed cut in steam freight, effective March 30, will delay steel shipments to many consumers, and will add further to the difficulty of maintaining steel production.
